From the Associate Rector:

I am sure that some things are better said than written, but I generally think better in writing, especially when what has to be said is emotionally charged to some extent. So if I said little before we left, it is not because there was nothing to express, but rather that it felt a little too much to trust to the spoken word.

When Emily, Janet and I came to All Saints a little more than three years ago it was for me almost too good to be true. My association with the Monterey Peninsula goes back a long way. As part of my "other life," the career in telecommunications, I first came to this area more than twenty years ago, having been invited to speak at a conference on teleconferencing. Anyone who raises an eyebrow at the notion of traveling across a continent (at the time I lived and worked in Ottawa, in Canada) to discuss ways of communicating without traveling would not be the first to note the inherent irony.

The conference was held in the Highlands Inn, in the days before it was developed into a fashionable resort; it has a quaint appeal, an old-fashioned atmosphere of luxury and a view from its deck that was a manifestation of the inherent art in God's handiwork. Who could fail to fall in love with such a locale, especially as a whale breached in the bay beneath the Inn one evening, and a mother and two baby whales surfaced close to the end of Point Lobos during a visit there?

So it was that whenever business drew me to California, I would endeavour to find an excuse to come to Monterey or Carmel; often accompanied by my first wife, Dilys.

Then I was offered an opportunity to move to Santa Clara. It was one of those, "let's try it for a couple of years to see whether we like it," decisions. That was 19 years ago. I suppose that we did like it. Before we left Ottawa, I remember that the administrative assistant for my department mentioned that she had lived in California for a while – in Monterey County. A wistful look came into her eyes. "That's God's country," she said, in her unmistakable Ottawa Valley accent. I already knew that. One of the high points of our early years in California was to come to the coast – anywhere from Davenport to Big Sur – but especially to the Monterey Peninsula.

Dilys died in 1988 from colon cancer. Quite often, if I wanted to feel in touch with her, I would come here, a place of happy memories.

Later, I met Janet; we married; and our honeymoon was spent in Monterey and at Ventana. More memories; more connections.

29 Feb 2004

When the Bishop called in June 2000 to suggest that I should talk to Father Carl about becoming a curate at All Saints, he said, “Those people will fit you like a glove.” What he did not know is that Carmel and Monterey already had a firm place in my heart, and that to be able to live and minister here would be rather like a dream come true. What I did not know – could not have known in advance – is that I was coming to a parish that would embrace, nurture, love and care for us as a family. The Bishop’s words were as insightful as they were accurate. The people of All Saints do fit me like a glove. What is remarkable is that I feel as though we have become an intrinsic part of a family. Members of families don’t always see eye-to-eye; they may have their disagreements; but in a healthy, happy family, they accept one another’s opinions, quirks and frailties, offer and receive help when it is needed, allow space where it is appropriate to do so – and just love one another in a quiet, caring, compassionate manner. It sounds quite like a lived version of the New Testament; and it is what we have experienced since coming to All Saints.

I came to All Saints as a newly ordained priest with a fair measure of life experience, wondering how it would all work out; I don’t know about the rest of you, but I know that I have grown as a priest and as a person because of the staff and congregation of All Saints. This is a place where we can relish our traditions, try new things, celebrate our successes, acknowledge our failures, learn from all of our experiences, and move ahead. A lot of that is due to the leadership of Father Carl; he has a gift for leading in a pastoral way that I have come to admire greatly. He has been a friend, as well as a guide, mentor and teacher for me, and All Saints reflects the quality of his leadership. I was drawn to All Saints by the two people whom I already knew here, and one of them was Father Carl.

The other was Holly Hudson-Louis: I knew of Holly’s reputation for family-oriented worship, and I hoped to learn from and with her. All of those hopes and expectations have been met and exceeded. It’s not just a question of starting a new service and watching the parish grow as result (and growth is not just a question of numbers!). There is a whole presence and infrastructure that goes with the desire to establish a place that allows for new forms of expression of our faith while embracing the roots of our heritage, and Holly is remarkably adept at finding the middle ground and creating a sacred space.

The pragmatic and spiritual teamwork of the staff and lay leadership of the parish have provided me with a remarkably supportive environment. If Anglicanism is about finding the middle way, the accepting and inclusive ground wherein people can explore the boundaries of their Christian spirituality, then it is important for the church to be a place where risk and change are acceptable in order for us to grow as individuals and as a community, and for us to provide a welcoming place where the gospel is lived as much as it is taught. I know that not everyone is comfortable with change, which is why we strive to retain the core aspects of our tradition and heritage while adding new opportunities for learning, worship and ministry. Looking around as we prepare to leave, I know that All Saints has the leadership – clergy, staff and laity – to continue to build a community of faith that supports itself as a family, and that reaches out to the communities around it in a spirit of Christian love.

As many of you know, the possibility of leaving All Saints has loomed over us for some time, in the face of financial pressure. It has fostered in me a healthy sense of appreciation for each day that we have spent here. Last September, my dearly beloved daughter, she who is prone to absent-mindedness, with a father who does not always remember to check things thoroughly, went to the diocesan camp at Big Sur. When I dropped her there on the Friday evening, we realized that she had forgotten something. I grumpily observed that she would just have to live without it. The next morning I awoke to one of those glorious September days that are cloudless, warm and sunny. I decided to give myself the gift of a trip to Big Sur to deliver the missing item, in the little, red Cabrio, with the top down. Driving along Highway 1, I remembered just how much personal history of mine is invested in this coast; driving back, I turned up the volume as I listened to a track from Simon and Garfunkel's album, Bridge Over Troubled Water: "The Only Living Boy In New York." It ends with the repeated words, "Here I am ..." and as they played, I felt a mystical set of connections: "Here I am ...," meaning Dilys; "Here I am ...," meaning Janet; "Here I am ...," meaning the spiritual presence of the creator who presented this glorious vista for our delight, and, finally, "Here I am ..." meaning me: here I was, here I have been, here I will be: wherever I go, I leave a piece of my heart here, and I take a piece of here in my heart.

And, people of All Saints, here you are. Accepting me, challenging me, feeding me, questioning me, wondering at and with me, comforting me, creating with me, giving to me, watching my daughter grow with me, loving me and Emily: here you are. This parish has given me – given us – so much that I am barely able to contemplate it all at once. As I face the prospect of moving on, I carry a huge weight of memories in my head and in my heart. We are the sum of the events and people that influence and shape our lives; we are a composite reflection and refraction of the relationships that we forge along the way. I remember the wistful words: "That's God's country," and I can only concur, with a heart full of emotion, and with one vital addition: this is God's country, and these are God's people.

Post Script

The delay in finishing the Patter has given me the opportunity to acknowledge the wonderful celebration on 29th February of our time together. I must admit that I was quite overwhelmed by what was said and done. I know who coordinated arrangements; I know who worked in the kitchen the day before; I know who collected pictures; I know who wrote the script for that sketch; but I don't know everyone who did everything, other than that a lot of people worked very hard to send us to Canada with the love of the people of All Saints ringing in our hearts. And I have not laughed at anything for a long time as much as I laughed at seeing myself caricatured by the young people of All Saints. There are so many to whom thanks are due, and I just hope that you all know how much I appreciated it all – including the wonderful attention to detail. It is a wonderful feeling to find that there are those who love us enough to know us well. And now, as I look back and realize that I have filled nearly three pages with my own stuff, I am reminded of the words of the sketch by the kids: "Please limit your contributions to the newsletter to two paragraphs so that I can fit in my five pages," or words to that effect.

The Legacy Society

The Legacy Society was formed in 2003 to promote the idea of parishioners leaving a legacy to the parish through their estate planning, whereby people leave a legacy in their will or in some other way include the parish in their estate as a beneficiary. Please make planned giving a priority. Contact Bill Sisk (625-6832) or Fr. Carl for ideas regarding "planned giving" and life-time income. We can provide a financial advisor or you can consult with your own the possible tax advantages available to you and help secure the parish in the future as well! The following article provides some helpful comments.

Financial Planning

Ken Petersen

One way or another, we all give.

I doubt there is even one reader out there who doesn't donate to a charity in one way or another, either by dropping money in a basket at church, bringing old clothes and appliances to donation stations, or mailing checks to the seemingly endless numbers of organizations that send solicitations by mail.

Why do people donate? Believe it or not, the primary reason is not the tax benefit but the "connection" they have to the charity or nonprofit organization. The tax benefit you receive is a residual benefit. The satisfaction of helping your favorite organization or cause is your main motivation.

Make a list of which charities and nonprofit organizations to which you have a connection. It will surprise you. Nonprofit organizations represent one of three sectors in our society, the other two being business and government. Businesses depend on revenue, government depends on taxes and charities depend on donations to provide working capital.

But donors get something in return from charities. A charity's special tax status allows it to operate without paying tax, giving donors a tax deduction incentive to make a charitable gift.

Through "planned giving," you as a donor can help make a difference while taking advantage of possible income benefits, such as optimum income, estate and gift tax reductions.

Planned giving can include one or more of the following methods:

- ❖ Outright Gifts: You give money or some other asset to a charity. The charity can use the gift immediately and you get an immediate tax deduction based upon the fair market value of the gift. Common gifts include cash, common stock, privately held stock, real estate, paid-up life insurance policies, tangible personal property and U.S. Savings Bonds.

- ❖ Charitable Gift Annuity: You give cash or property to a charity in exchange for a guaranteed fixed income for a number of years or for life, as well as some tax advantages.

- ❖ Pooled Income Fund: You donate cash or marketable securities to a fund that in many ways is similar to a mutual fund. You receive income like you would from a gift annuity but it is not fixed or guaranteed. It will vary with the performance of the investments in the fund.

- ❖ Charitable Remainder Trust: You make an irrevocable gift in a special trust, name yourself as the income beneficiary and receive income for life or for a period of no more than 20 years. The annual income you receive has to be at least 5 percent of the initial value of the trust. If you place appreciated securities or property in the trust, you avoid capital gains tax. When the trust terminates, the remaining assets in the trust belong to a charity.

- ❖ Non-Grantor Lead Trusts: Kind of the opposite of the above. The annual income goes to a charity. When you die, the remaining assets go to your heirs.

- ❖ Bargain Sale: This is part gift, part sale. You sell an asset to the charity for less than the appraised value. You get an income tax deduction for the difference between the appraised value and the sale price. The most common asset for a bargain sale is real estate.

- ❖ Gift of Residence with a Retained Life Estate: You give your primary residence or vacation home to a charity but keep the right to live in it. You continue to maintain the property. You will receive a current income tax deduction for a portion of the appraised value and your home is no longer in your estate for estate tax purposes. The advantage here is that you can make a substantial gift to charity without any change in your lifestyle.

- ❖ Bequest: You leave part of your estate to a charity in your will or living trust. You can also use a bequest for any of the gifting methods mentioned above.

- ❖ Gift of a Retirement Plan Asset: You can leave your IRA to a charity. If your heirs receive your IRA, they have to pay income tax when they withdraw the money, and your estate may have to pay an estate tax, which could be as much as 50 percent of the value of the IRA. If you leave your IRA to a charity, the charity won't pay any tax on the IRA and neither will your estate.

A Holy Lent to you! May God lead us and may we follow in ways that make our lives healthier, simpler, cleaner, less selfish, more wholesome, more noble, more just, more peaceful!

UPCOMING YOUTH EVENTS

(mark your calendars-watch for details!):

- ❖ March 26th-28th (overnight) Happening (9-12th grades): this is a life-changing spiritual retreat actually put on by teens for teens- one of the best programs available for peer ministry... and very cool!
- ❖ -April 14-June 2nd Wednesday afternoons, Confirmation will be June 6th at the 5:30 service. Youth Confirmation classes for eighth grades and up-a chance to explore God, the church, and your place in it all! There will be a weekly class (parent's to attend the first one), a small retreat one Saturday morning TBA, and a strong recommendation to attend either a New Beginnings or Happening retreat. (Chaplain. Wendy Howe offers confirmation class to 5th grades and up-contact her at All Saints Day School, 624-9171)
- ❖ -April 30th-May 2nd (overnight) New Beginnings (6-9th grades): Similar to Happenings, except for middle school. Held at Mt. Hermon in the Santa Cruz mountains- lots of fun!

Please call Jenni (number above) about any of these events!

Please be sure to pick up This Season ... At Home booklets for Lent and Easter in the back of the church (or from the office).

Benedictine Spirituality

Claudia Ward

Practicing our faith on a daily basis can be a challenge. Today there is new interest in the Rule of St. Benedict and how it can be applied to our lives as ordinary lay people. A class on Benedictine Spirituality is being held in the evenings during Lent, on Thursday evenings, 5:30 to 7:00 pm.

- ❖ March 28: Older elementary
- ❖ April 4: Middle School (class time may shift depending on service schedule for Palm Sunday).
- ❖ New for April 18: Teen Years (this class will be taught by The Rev. Canon Jan Wood who is also the mom of two teenagers)

Contact Holly if you plan to come or if you have questions. 624-3883 ext. 13

Yoga At All Saints

Yoga at All Saints! We will begin a Lenten Yoga class on Mondays and Thursdays from 12:00 - 1:00 pm, March 1st through April 8th in Seccombe Hall. The class will combine our meditative time of Lent with the physical benefits of Yoga. Please come ready to move, wear comfortable clothes and bring a yoga mat. They are available at Big 5, Whole Foods and Target if you want to purchase one. The classes will be $60 for the entire session, or $5 per class. The instructor is Angie Hager. She is a yoga teacher with 17 years experience, and a parishioner of All Saints who also teaches Godly Play. Please sign up at church on Sunday or contact Angie at ROBIXang@aol.com.

The “Tweens”? That is the between time when a child is a child, but is also like teenager... The largest population of kids at All Saints is in this age group. As a result we are in the process of putting together a one evening class (after Easter) called Parenting “Tweens” And That Transitional 5th Grade Year. Date and time will be announced soon!

All Saints Book Group

The Rev. Holly Hudson-Louis

The All Saints Book Group meets on Wednesday, April 14th to discuss the book Toward Holy Ground: Spiritual Directions for the Second Half of Life by Margaret Guenther. (This book does have something for people of all ages!) We will join with other parishioners for the 6:00 Lenten Soup Supper then begin our discussion at 7:00 p.m. Meeting room to be announced.

Parenting

The Rev. Holly Hudson-Louis

The Spiritual Development of Children: A class for parents, grandparents, foster parents on Sunday morning during Lent. As parents, and others who love children, we are well aware of the physical, intellectual and emotional development of our children... but what of the spiritual? Each session will provide an introduction to faith development with a focus on age appropriate stages. Please join us for the date that fits your family! The hour long classes will begin at 10:30, and we will meet in the Library.

- ❖ March 7: Infants through 12 months
- ❖ March 14: Toddlers and preschoolers through 36 months
- ❖ March 21: Young elementary

Seder

Wednesday

March 31, 2004

This year our Seder will be led by special guests, Neale Johnson, and Carmen Israel, of Shabat Shalom Jewish - Christian Fellowship. This wonderful local ministry helps Christians of all denominations to better understand their Jewish roots by learning the context and meaning of Jewish worship and culture at the time of Jesus. You won't want to miss this!

Choirmaster's Corner

Jean Widaman, Director Of Music

From the First Sunday of Advent to the Last Sunday after Pentecost, we mark the changing seasons of the liturgical year in a number of ways—liturgical colors, for instance, and of course, music. During Lent, as we prepare hearts and minds to relive the events of Holy Week and Easter, we refrain from singing the Gloria and Alleluia. Our singing of the Psalm takes on a more somber hue as we turn to a setting in a minor key rather than a bright major key. When at last we sing the Gloria and ring the bells of Easter at Easter Vigil, it's as if we've gone from black and white to full living color in the light of the Resurrection.

This year, beginning on the Second Sunday of Lent, we will set off the special character of the Lenten season in two ways: 1) by using Morning Prayer in place of the Liturgy of the Word at the 10:30 service (the Eucharist will follow, as usual), and 2) with service music that will be familiar to long-time parishioners—Leo Sowerby's lovely setting of the Kyrie, Sanctus and Agnus Dei that was omitted from the 1982 Hymnal. We will continue to mark the seasons of the liturgical year with service music appropriate to the season. Richard and I are planning the sequence of settings we will use over the course of the liturgical year, with oversight by members of the Worship Commission and Fr. Carl. If you have suggestions regarding the service music or the hymns we sing at the 10:30 service, this is a good time to let me know—preferably in writing or by e-mail (jwidaman@mbay.net). Now's your chance!

ECW

Several events are coming soon for members of the ECW (Episcopal Church Women); all female members of the Episcopal Church can be members of the ECW. These are diocesan events, and parish women are invited.

The Mary Lou Thompson retreat will be at the Saint Francis retreat centre in San Juan Bautista on 17th-18th March, led by the Rev. Sandra Barnard. For more details, please contact Margaret Werkheiser (408.262.5032).

The annual meeting and UTO (United Thank Offering) ingathering will take place at Saint Stephen's in-the-field in South San Jose beginning at 9:30 am on 15th April. Following Eucharist, the speaker will be the Rev. Jerry Drino on the subject of "the lost boys of the Sudan." Chris Glancey will be the hostess for this gathering (408.578.4672).

On 1st May the annual Women's Day will take place at Saint Paul's in Salinas. Grace Matthews and Pauline Hawkins are in charge of this event. Included this day will be the "Miles for Pennies" parade, and members are encouraged to bring pennies from their own church.

Cruise 2004

Tom Brown

The men's club will be sponsoring a cruise to the beautiful Mexican Riviera commencing on October 4th. We'll leave from Los Angeles aboard Norwegian Cruise Lines cruise ship Norwegian Star, a sister ship to the Norwegian Sun that took our group to Alaska last August.

This year, the voyage will be longer (eight nights). It will be warmer, and it will be cheaper. Balcony state rooms are $1,297 and $1,317, and we've reserved eight of each. And the travel agency will pay All Saints $200 for each full paying passenger. To reserve your space, a $400 deposit is required, and this is fully refundable until 76 days prior to the cruise. We'll have brochures with full details soon, but in the mean time, those interested should call Tom Brown at 831.624.2685.

Rummage Sale, May 1st!

"Everything But The Kitchen Sink"
(Preview Night, April 30th, 6 – 8 p.m.)

The chair of the sale this year is Hans Lehmann. Bring your rummage now! Sorting is every Tuesday at 9 a.m. All are welcome to help. We're aiming for $10,000 this year to be raised for the Outreach of the parish. Lots of help is needed! Call Hans at 624-0540 if you'd like to volunteer for one of the departments.

Saint George's College

You will notice several brochures in the office and the back of the church pertaining to Saint George's College in Jerusalem. The college is a centre of continuing education in the Anglican Communion offering short-term courses as well as facilities for individual reflection and study.

Saint George's College is offering an opportunity to experience Turkey through Saint Paul and the Early Church from May 1st-14th 2004. The leader is Dr Stephen Need, who recently visited All Saints with his wife. For more information, please contact Saint George's College directly via e-mail at Registrar@stgeorges.org.il, or visit the web site: www.stgeorgescollegejerusalem.org.

Men's Club

Tom Brown

The February meeting of the Men's Club was held in the library with twenty members present. Our chef Dedini served up spaghetti and meatballs¹ with a crispy salad and plenty of red wine, followed with berry cobbler and ice cream and coffee. Rev. Paul Strudwick gave us a program on "Leadership." Since we met in the library, we were able to have a fire in the fireplace; a truly enjoyable evening for all. It is our hope that more men of All Saints (and their guests) will take advantage of our fellowship, fine food, and excellent programs. All men of the parish and their male guests are welcome and urged to attend. We meet on the third Thursday of each month in Seccombe Hall. The next meeting will be on 25th March, and coming so close to Saint Patrick's day, need we announce the menu? Ian McPhail will be our speaker on the subject of an orphanage in India which is close to his heart. For more information, or to request a vegetarian alternative to corned beef, please call Tom Brown at 831.624.2685.

WHY?

Spiritual Growth (and Fun)

WHO?

You!

Many men and women who have attended Cursillo weekends describe the experience as similar to seeing a double rainbow for the first time--one of awe and excitement.

With Tim Madden serving as rector (tmadden@redshift.com), supported by Rob Eaton, the men's weekend will be held May 6-9 at scenic Camp St. Francis in La Selva Beach. Barbara Bidwell (bbid2002@aol.com) is rectora for the women's weekend May 13-16, and will be assisted by Tamara Santos.

To experience a Cursillo retreat this spring, complete an application (mbaycursillo.org or call Deborah Thompson, 277-8047). The single gender weekends are being sponsored by the servant communities of Monterey Bay, Santa Clara, and San Luis Obispo in May. Talk to our rector, who can tell you about Cursillo or call our parish cursillo representative Deborah Thompson, who can answer your questions and assist you in the application process.

While Tim and Barbara can't promise you a double rainbow, they can assure you that their teams will provide you with a provocative spiritual retreat replete with engaging liturgies, amiable companions, great food, and gorgeous views!

You've read the book, and seen the movie, now take the walk with Jesus through Holy Week and Easter

The ancient liturgies of the church are intended to allow devoted Christians to meditate upon the awe-inspiring last days of Jesus, known as the Passion Narrative. Beginning with Palm Sunday, we move from the joy of the Triumphal Entry of Jesus into Jerusalem, through the horror of the cross, the emptiness of the tomb, and the new life of the Resurrection. Our worship services are listed below. Set the week aside as much as you can, as though you were going on a journey. Holy Week is the most sacred time of the year for Christians, and needs to be set aside as a time of deep reflection, worship, and openness to the transforming power of Christ, God's gift of love to humanity.
